PRACTICAL FIT

How Framer fits a small business workflow

WHAT IT IS

Framer is a visual website builder and publishing platform for designing responsive marketing sites with a design-first canvas, CMS features, hosting, and interactive effects.

WHERE IT FITS

Framer fits startups, designers, and marketing teams that want to move from visual design to a published website quickly without maintaining a separate development stack. It is particularly useful for polished landing pages, startup sites, portfolios, and campaign websites.

WHEN IT MAY NOT FIT

Framer may not be the right fit for businesses that need a deeply extensible CMS, complex ecommerce operations, or highly custom backend functionality. Teams with simple content needs may also find less design-focused builders easier to maintain.

DECISION GUIDE

Who should choose it?

GOOD FIT

Choose Framer if you want to design and publish modern marketing pages quickly with strong visual control and minimal development overhead.

SKIP IF

Skip it if you need complex backend functionality, a very large content operation, or the broad plugin ecosystem available in WordPress.
